The prediction made in the early fail that the winter's social season would be a gay one is being verified. Thanksgiving gave the impetus to dinners, and more are being given and are on the tapis than for many seasons past. The afternoon reception still holds its own; it is to entertainments what bread is to dinner. There may be variations in every key, but C major is the standard. At these receptions there are changes in the decorations. The houses are unlike, the guests are not all the same, but there is always a hostess with special friends to receive, other friends to assist in entertaining-sub-hostesses, as it weresome pretty friends to preside at the teatable and look charming amid the worcester and Doulton, and flowers and lights, some young friends to serve the ices, and other very young friends to serve punch-atrocious name-or lemonade. Each room or table represents one shade in these entertainments de coleur, pink, yellow and green and white being the favorites. If there is an orchestra every woman's voice will be keyed above the natural, and will be used fortissimo. The noise is deafening. Another form of entertainment which will always prevail is the dancing party. After providing music, a good floor and refreshments, the one duty of the host and hostess is to see that there are no wall-flowers; that no guest is left slone, either on the floor or in a seat in the erally admitted to be the most enjoyable of entertainment to which one be invited. The guests are few, and there is an opportunity for table talk. Card parties acquire the least exertion on the part of a hostess of any of the diversions which she may offer to her friends. So that the predominating ceremonies, whereby one may call in their friends, are receptions, dances, dinners and luncheons and cards. All the others are mere interludes. Numerous new gowns are in the hands of the modiste for the swell parties which are to be given within the next few weeks, No toilet is considered quite complete unless the shoes or slippers correspond with the dress. They should be either of the same material or else the same color. The latest shape is the Peruvienne, a slipper with straps buttoning cross-wise over the instep and embroidered with beads of the same color.

One of the most charming of the many cradle songs is a new one called the "Elfin Lullaby," words by E. Heinrichs and music by Arthur W. Thayer. One feature that makes it especially interesting is that it is dedicated to Gertrude Crossland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crossland, of this city. Mrs. T. C. Moore entertained a number of her friends at her home, at 61 North Arsenal avenue, Friday last. The event was an "oldtime quilting." The hostess and her guests were dressed in the fashion of forty years ago, and came at 9 o'clock a. M. An old-fashioned dinner was served in the kitchen, the walls of which were hung about with strings of dried apples, pumpkin, corn and bunches of dried herbs. The "blue and gold" china and the table linen used at dinner were one hundred years old. The quilt was pieced by Mrs. Morris's grandmother before the war, and a number of the pieces were seventy-five years old.
